Did You Know?

Wearing extra winter layers makes your body work harder and sweat more than you realize. Even if you don't feel sweaty, you can lose a surprising amount of fluid under all those layers. So, make sure you stay hydrated while enjoying the winter weather.

Help Us Honor Our State's Environmental Champions

It's that time of year when we ask you to do a good deed for our state's environment — simply by letting us know about a person, organization or company doing a great job helping to protect or improve Connecticut's environment.

For the 16th year, the Aquarion Environmental Champion Awards will honor outstanding, voluntary work benefiting our state's natural resources. Winners will be able to direct a $5,000 grant from Aquarion to their favorite environmental non-profit. The student winner will take home a $1,000 award.

But first we're counting on you to nominate candidates in four categories - Adult, Non-Profit, Business and Student. And feel free to nominate yourself or your own organization. When it comes to "Stewards of the Environment," we don't want any unsung heroes.

The nomination period closes on May 8. We'll name our 2026 Environmental Champions on June 6 at a special awards event at Connecticut's Beardsley Zoo. For more details or to submit a nomination, visit aquarionwater.com/awards.

Save 32% on Upcycled Rain Barrels

Aquarion is again offering you the chance to buy discounted rain barrels to catch and store otherwise wasted runoff water. These rugged barrels fill from your downspouts and can hold 60 gallons of water for your garden and other plantings. A brass spigot and hose connection make watering easy, and a screen keeps leaves and bugs out.

Normally $125, Aquarion customers can order a rain barrel for $85 each. You just need to reserve your barrel by April 18 for easy pickup in Fairfield, Greenwich, Litchfield, Simsbury, Stonington, or Trumbull. Supplies are limited, so get all the details now at aquarionwater.com/rainbarrels.
